Fulfillment & Warehousing

Running a business can be stressful, time-consuming, and frustrating at times. Problems with inaccurate inventory levels, incorrect fulfillment, and schedules not being met, only add to your workload. Let us take that stress off your shoulders so you can get back to more areas you want to focus on, such as product development, sales, marketing, or customer service.

Colortech is more than just your fulfillment site, we act as an extension of your team.

We provide special support services for those clients with larger runs and limited storage or with on-going distribution requirements. We are able to efficiently warehouse your materials in a quality-controlled environment and ship according to your requisition instructions.

Collating

Our team will ensure that your documents, catalogs, and promotional packages are in the exact order you want them prior to shipping.

Kitting

Colortech can group or bundle your separate items together to create a "kit" to save you time and money.

Labeling

If you're lacking the time or resources to properly put labels on your products, we can turn your separate packaging components into one cohesive brand.

Storage

We have the ability to store your products in our warehouse to keep your overhead costs down and save you precious space.
